RNL ANNOUNCES NEW STAFF ADDITIONS

Denver, Colorado, August 18, 2006 – RNL announces the following staff additions in its Denver office: Tim Flanagan joins RNL's engineering studio as senior electrical engineer and studio leader. Flanagan brings eight years of experience specializing in a wide variety of commercial and institutional electrical design, including many LEED, higher learning, and hospitality projects.

After 20 years in sales, Carol McLanahan joins RNL's landscape studio as landscape architect. McLanahan has a master's degree in landscape and urban design from the University of Colorado-Denver and brings more than four years of design experience to RNL. Her focus will be domestic and international landscape and urban design projects. McLanahan will also participate in business development for the UDLA studio.

Rene Stremel returns to RNL's interior design studio after receiving her Bachelor's Degree in Interior Architecture from Kansas State University. She is currently working on the Paragon Lobby remodel.

Komal Kotwal and Gabrielle Kroll join the architecture studio as architectural interns. Kotwal recently graduated with her master's in architecture from the University of Michigan. Kroll comes to RNL from Lincoln Nebraska, where she worked for a small architectural firm after receiving her master's degree in architecture from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Rich Ward joins the landscape studio specializing in 3D graphics production. Ward brings more than four years of experience in academic, commercial and historical preservation to RNL. The former United States Marine is currently working on the master planning and design of the Commerce City Civic and Justice Center as well as the National Renewable Energy Laboratory.

Penny Anderson joins as graphic designer. Lindsey Prall joins RNL as human resources assistant.

In other staffing news, RNL congratulates Bill Arens and Sarah Rege for their success in passing the architectural registration exams.
