RNL's Henry Leung Achieves Architectural Licensure in California

Los Angeles, CA, August 2, 2010 – RNL, a global, full-service design firm, congratulates Henry T. Leung, RA, on his attainment of architectural licensure in the state of California. Leung, a registered architect in the state of Arizona since 2009, was licensed in July by the California Architect's Board.

Leung has more than eleven years of experience in the roles of project manager, project architect and project coordinator. His expertise includes design generation, presentation, working document inspection/coordination, contract administration, building code review and site meetings for a variety of project types. Leung has just completed work on the Santa Monica Corporation Yard Master Plan Update in Santa Monica and now serves as the project manager/project architect for the Melrose Mixed-Use High End Retail Development in West Hollywood. Leung holds a master of architecture from the University of California, Los Angeles, and a bachelor of technology from Ryerson Polytechnic University.

Aaron Kelly, associate principal and studio lead for RNL's Los Angeles office said, "Henry sets a fine example of leadership and professional growth for the Los Angeles office and the firm as a whole. We are proud to work beside him and congratulate him on this significant milestone."

Henry Leung is a native of Toronto, Canada, and lives in downtown Los Angeles.
