Andrew Irvine, AAILA, LEED AP joins RNL as associate principal

Irvine will help lead RNL's urban design and landscape architecture studio

DENVER – August 25, 2009 – RNL announces Andrew Irvine has joined its Denver office as associate principal. A native of Tasmania, Irvine comes to RNL from Lend Lease Communities where he was vice president of design.

Irvine's projects have won more than 25 design awards. He brings a strong background in mixed-use, transportation, community design, and large-scale urban planning projects. He has worked on projects around the world and across the U.S. Irvine will be collaborating with RNL's Abu Dhabi, UAE office staffers on the firm's international master planning and urban design projects. He is also working on the U.S. Department of Energy/National Renewable Energy Laboratory's Research Support Facilities project for RNL.

"After recent experience on the owner side, which provided valuable insight into development world, I'm happy to be back in the midst of a global design practice at RNL and am able to pursue my passion in design," said Irvine. His recent planning work in Rwanda, Africa was awarded the 2009 Daniel Burnham award, the most prestigious national award offered by the American Planning Association.

Also joining RNL are Ian Roth, AIA, LEED AP as project architect, and Mundi Wahlberg as marketing coordinator. Roth is a licensed architect with 12 years of experience in the design and construction industry, and is a specialist in implementing and executing Building Information Modeling and Virtual Design and Construction processes.

Wahlberg has more than eight years experience with marketing in the architecture and engineering industry.

In other staffing news, RNL announces that David Key, Louise Lee, Xinkuang Liao, Tim Meador, Brian Nicholson and Bill Renz have passed the LEED accreditation exam, bringing RNL's total number of LEED accredited professional to 68, which is more than half of its design staff. Also, Daniel Tal and Sarah Moll of RNL's urban design and landscape architecture studio each passed the landscape architecture registration exam and received a license in landscape architecture.
